IN DARKEST RUSSIA.

Black is the Pen Picture Painted By An Eye-Witness.

[By Telegraph to the BULLETIN.]

LONDON, April 6.—The special correspondent of Renter's Telegram company, who is traveling through the famine-stricken portions of Russia, sends the following dated Nijni Novgorod, March 22:

In my last dispatch I illustrated by official statistics the deplorable economical condition of this province. I will now give an account of my own personal observations among the peasantry in the villages I have visited. This can be best done by taking one or two typical instances. Here is a hut without flooring; as you enter it you tread upon the bare ground. There is no fuel for the big stove and the hut is inadequately warmed by small charcoal brazier placed in the center.

The occupants have sold their sheep skins. Their monthly allowance of bread lasts them for two weeks and a half. Three families have sought refuge in this hut and burn alternately their respective stores of fuels, consisting almost exclusively now of the roofs of the deserted cabins, and even the woodwork of the huts themselves. Being without sheep skins, these famishing peasants are unable to seek work, to go begging or do anything but sit passively huddled together bemoaning their wretchedness. Cases of suicide are common.

The custom of giving alms "in the name of Christ," which is universal in Russia and one of the most beautiful traits in the character of the people, has not proved of much avail to the destitute this winter.

Mendicants knock at the doors and windows of dwellings, bow to the ground, and mutter, "For Christ's sake." The peasant housewife instantly collects a few crusts and gives them to the applicant. It is considered a sin to turn the petitioner away, and even in such large towns as Moscow and St. Petersburg this practice is kept up.

People with such customs must have been long inured to hardship and privation, but this year the bow has snapped and the old usages of orthodox Russia have failed to keep want from the door. There has been no one to practice them.

The following is an abstract from an official report to the Nijni Zemstov: "Many of the peasants in this district have reaped nothing but tares. Potatoes have been very bad; there is absolutely no food for the winter. The peasants have besides no forests of their own and the new forests are far off; the famished horses are too weak to carry wood from such a distance, and consequently the peasants have to purchase the fuel for heavy prices from the local gentry and there is no money anywhere."

These few official words bear a likeness to the hopelessness of the situation. It is pitiful to find the country gentry, the former proprietors of these destitute peasants, playing the part of usurers and taking advantage of the people's necessities to get them into their power.

The Jews are being turned out of the country, but the worst possible kind of usury is still practiced. The attitude of the gentry towards the distressed peasants is in many cases most inhuman. The peasant is regarded simply as motive power, as an agricultural implement.

The emigration problem in Russia is a burning question. Notwithstanding the rapid increase of the population nothing is done to organize emigration.

In fact, every obstacle is thrown in the way and even when, after much trouble, the unfortunate peasants succeed in getting as far as Tyumen, they are generally left to starve. The government does nothing to find them land or settlements and the unfortunate exiles wander about like sheep without a shepherd and generally return to their native villages, poorer and sadder, if not wiser, than when they left.

The reason of this shameful neglect is twofold. In the first place I am convinced from what I have seen in the course of my journey through the country that it is the deliberate policy of the government to keep the peasant in a state of barbarism and poverty.

Anything like culture or improvement is dreaded for fear of awakening ideas that might be antagonistic to the aristocracy. Where the government stops short, the country gentleman steps in. It is his aim and object to keep the peasantry in a state of dependencies and to keep the wages of agricultural labor at the lowest possible level.

The policy of the country gentry in fact, reminds one forcibly of the man who tried to see how little he could feed his horse on. As in the case of that ill-starred quadruped, the Russian peasant has now practically been reduced to the starvation point.

Many of the peasants who were too cautious to emigrate sought work in the towns and neighboring towns, but their endeavors were fruitless; they had to return, without work and penniless, to bear the reproaches of their starving families. There was no work to be found during these hard times. Even in the best of times it would have been difficult to find employment for the enormous numbers that went out to seek it.

In a single district of this province, where the average annual exodus of factory hands and other laborers is about 5,000, as many as 14,000 persons left the country in search of work. From these figures some idea may be formed of the extent to which the labor market has been flooded.

A large proportion of the peasants who came to the local authorities for traveling passports were unable to return to their homes. They were so weak and faint that the district passport clerks had to feed them to enable them to start. Many stated that they had eaten only once in two days, some only once in three and others but once in four days.

The doctor of the fifth section of the Vasilki district, Dr. Gerken, reports that peasants presented themselves to him looking like living skeletons. In many villages the peasantry support life upon the leaves of tares and weeds. Competent authorities have told me that it will take Russia ten years to recover from the effects of the famine.

NOVEL PLEA.

A Negro Murderer Sentenced for Life May Soon Be Free.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Last September at the district jail Sam Moore, a negro, killed a fellow prisoner named Jandorf. Moore was tried for murder, convicted and sentenced to be executed, but President Harrison commuted the sentence to life imprisonment, and Moore is now serving the sentence in the Albany penitentiary.

His counsel, Mr. George K. French, of this city, now proposes to endeavor to secure Moore's release upon a novel plea. Mr. French claims that as the communication was not accepted by Moore, and the date set for the execution having passed, his client can not legally be held and should be discharged. The case will come up under habeas corpus proceedings and its result will be watched with much interest.

Threw Her Child Out the Window.

NEWARK, N. J., April 6.—An exciting scene was witnessed at a fire in the house of Joseph Blume, on Springfield avenue, yesterday. Mrs. Blume became excited when she discovered the flames, and picking up her infant child threw it from the second story window. Letter Carrier George Schmidt was passing at the moment, and the child landed safely in his arms. Before the fire was checked, six dwellings were destroyed, causing a loss of $5,000.

Murder or Suicide?

MINNEAPOLIS, April 6.—The body of Anthony Patrasc, of 520 Fourth street, was found in the hallway of his home lying in a big pool of blood and with a bullet hole in his right temple. A revolver was found under the body. Mrs. Patrasc believes that some man with whom her husband had quarreled shot him for revenge and dropped the revolver to give the appearance of self-murder.

Discovered a Bomb.

ROME, April 6.—The authorities of Palermo, Sicily, are investigating an attempt on the part of unknown persons to cause terrible explosion. A bomb of dynamite was discovered by a patrol of soldiers close to the powder magazine of Monte Pellegrino. Had it exploded from the spot on which it was found it would have occasioned immense damage.

Justice Lamar's Condition Critical.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Although the condition of Justice Lamar, of the United States supreme court, is reported improving, it is the belief of those who have seen him, and who know of his reduced physical condition, that he will not live many days. He is upwards seventy years old, and very feeble.

Venezuela News Suppressed.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The captain of the steamship Venezuela which arrived yesterday from Lagunayara, states that although in port at Lagunayara four days, he could obtain no reliable information concerning the Venezuelan revolution. News relative to it is suppressed, and rumors only are extent.

Death of a Newspaper Man.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 6.—William J. Schader, editor and proprietor of The Jefferson Democrat, a German weekly paper, died at his home here last night from pneumonia, brought on by a severe attack of grippe. Deceased was sixty-five years old and a resident of Schuykill county for forty-five years.

Devastated by Fire.

HAVANA, April 6.—An immense tobacco factory in this city was burned yesterday. The loss is very heavy. Twenty-nine persons received painful injuries by jumping from the upper stories.

Fight Between Mexicans and Indians.

PHOENIX, A. T., April 6.—A courier from San Miguel, Mex., brings information of a fight between Yaqui Indians and Mexican troops at the Gabian mines. Two Indians were killed and one badly injured. None of the troops were wounded. The trouble was caused by the arrest of several of the Indians suspected of collecting arms and ammunition, preparatory to a raid.

Boy Stabbed by Another.

GREENSBURG, Ind., April 6.—Morton Brown, a lad about fifteen years of age, in an altercation last evening with another boy, Charles Nesbit, stabbed him in the breast, near the heart. It is not thought possible for Nesbit to recover.

CARRIED OUT HIS THREAT.
Workless Husband Instantly Kills His Industries Wife.

LAWRENCE, Mass., April 6.—A most brutal murder occurred at 7 o'clock yesterday evening on the north side of Common street near Broadway, where Peter Eno, a Boston and Maine brakeman, and a worthless husband shot and instantly killed his indignant wife, Minnie. Only one shot was fired, but it lodged at the base of the brain, and the woman fell to the pavement and died without a murmur.

The murderer escaped. He is about thirty-two years of age, and his wife was about the same age. The couple have a son seven years old. Eno has been living apart from his wife for some time, and has often threatened her life. He often left home, refusing altogether to contribute to his wife's support and that of his child.

Mrs. Eno, however, conducted a restaurant at 134 Broadway and provided for the wants of her family. The husband was jealous of his wife, without cause, and said the reason for refusing to support his wife was because she kept company with other men. This suspicion was unfounded, but Eno, nevertheless, raged against his wife.

He last went away over six months ago. Then a terrible discovery came to Mrs. Eno. She found that she had been duped, and that her husband had another wife living in Plainfield, Conn. Then she refused, although he wrote to her, to have anything to do with him. He came back repeatedly to Lawrence, but she told him she would not live with him.

He drank, came around the house every week or so, bothered the boarders and threatened his wife. She complained to the police and feared violence. He met her repeatedly by night on the street and threatened to give her a present of a white dress and new box. Last night proved that his threats were not idle.

He met his wife just half a square away from the restaurant yesterday evening. She was walking to a cloak store when he stepped up and spoke quietly for a minute, then fired the fatal shot. It was so quickly done, and so dark was the street, with so few people about, that the murderer had every chance for his cowardly deed and every facility for escape.

FURNITURE FACTORY FIRE.

A Mammoth Plant Destroyed at Piqua, Ohio.

PIQUA, April 6.—Flames broke out yesterday afternoon in the mammoth furniture concern of Cron, Kells & Company, and their entire plant is now in ruins.

It was model furniture plant, consisting of a magnificent four story brick building 80 by 100 feet, and two large warehouses of the same size. The flames spread to and destroyed a few of the surrounding houses.

Troy and Urbana were telegraphed for aid. It was the greatest conflagration Piqua has ever known. Loss $125,000; insurance, $60,000.

Iron Firm Assigns.

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—William S. Hart, dealer in steel, iron, ore and Bessemer pigiron, trading under the name of William Hart & Company, whose offices are in the Manhattan building, Fourth and Walnut streets, has made an assignment to William Pilling. Mr. Pilling is Mr. Hart's business manager and salesman and has been with the firm several years. Mr. Pilling would not make a statement of the affairs for publication, but Mr. Hart said that the assignment of the Lehigh Iron company last week was what precipitated the failure.

This is the Latest One.

ROCKVILLE, Ind., April 6.—A few days ago J. L. Heath, a reputable farmer near Marshall, this county, while removing clover hay from a mow, uncovered a live hen which he claims had been there since last June, when the hay was stored. There was no possible chance for the fowl to have crawled into the place where found, after it was once closed. The hen was full grown, of the Plymouth Rock variety, and weighed a pound and one-half when found. She is now beginning to walk and is doing well.

Mr. Porter Not a Candidate.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 6.—Rumors began again rife that Minister to Italy Porter would certainly be the Republican candidate for governor. Mr. Porter issued last night the following: "I have not said or intimated to any person that it was my purpose to enter the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. I am in no sense a candidate for the office of governor." Regarding his return to Italy he said he had not received any official instructions from the secretary of state.

Fatally Injured by Machinery.

CEDARVILLE, O., April 6.—J. M. Irvin, a well known citizen about sixty years old, was caught in the machinery of an elevator yesterday and was choked. He attempted to escape, but his clothing was caught in the belting and he was whirled around rapidly on the revolving shaft. His clothing was torn from him and his leg and head were crushed. He received internal injuries and died at 11:30 o'clock, after terrible suffering.

DYNAMITE PLOT.

[By Telegraph to the BULLETIN.]

MADRID, April 6.—The police yesterday afternoon arrested a Frenchman named Devat as he was entering the back door of the parliamentary building. He had excited their suspicion by his efforts to avoid observation, and by holding with great care a bundle under his cloak. When arrested he tried to throw down the bundle, but was prevented. He was taken to a police station, where the bundle was found to contain a dynamite bomb, with a fuse ready for lighting.

The Frenchman said that he had placed a similar bomb in the lobby entrance, but evidently the fuse had gone out. An examination of the lobby resulted in the discovery of the bomb behind a pillar.

Each bomb contained about six pounds of dynamite, enough to have wrecked the whole building.

"Everything enjoyed by the rich is created by the labor of the poor. The wicked system of modern society prevents workmen from possessing what they produce. Whatever the form of government, the rich rob the poor and no party dares to oppose them. As the laws serve only to protect the rich in their plundering, let us help ourselves. Let us attack the rich in all conceivable means—with fire, knife and poison. Ownership is theft. Death to the bourgeoisie. Strike now."

There were three large red crosses at the top and bottom of the proclamation, but no signatures. The police think the prisoner is a member of the Mano Negra, the organization of murderers and robbers to which the Xeres anarchists belonged.

The police think that the plots were laid by anarchists in Paris in collusion with members of the Mano Negra in Spain, and that Devat was sent to lead in the execution as he knew the country yet was not known to the police.

A Lisbon anarchist named Ferreira was caught lurking near the parliamentary buildings at the time of Devat's arrest and was taken to the same police station. He is thought to be Devat's accomplice. Compromising papers were found also in his possession. Besides several incendiary placards he had a plan of the palace and the senate chamber. The police think he may have been selected to blow up these buildings in accordance with the plans of Devat.

Each of the bombs seized had a three-minute fuse attached to it. Both were made in this city, it is believed, and houses of anarchist suspects are being searched by the police in an effort to find the factory.

The news of the discoveries has excited greatest fear among the wealthier classes. The palace is doubly guarded and extra watchmen have been placed on duty at the banks and municipal buildings. Several private families have reported that they have been threatened and ask the police for special protection.

BUT ONE TO TELL THE TALE.
A Crazy Man Responsible for the Drowning.

GREENFIELD, Mass., April 6.—Miss Caroline Frink, the surviving member of last Sunday's boating party, which ended in a tragedy at Will's Mills, says that Joseph Eger was violently insane. She says that Eger tried to swamp the boat when it reached the middle of the river, and failing in that he let it drift down the river without trying to stop its headway although the roar of the falls could be plainly heard. The falls are thirty feet and with the present high water in the river the current is unusually swift.

The party did not fully realize the danger until within a hundred feet of the falls. Then it was too late. Miss Frink, who was the only one to come to the surface, was saved. Two bodies were recovered on Monday, but the others are still in the river bed. There were six members of the boating party. The oarsman, Joseph Eger, whose wife was one of the recent victims of trichinosis, had invited five young companions to a boat ride, and he went crazy with the above fatal result.

Dr. Cronin's Murder Recalled.

CHICAGO, April 6.—John F. Beggs, the lawyer who was senior guardian of Camp 20, Clan-na-Gael, at the time of the murder of Dr. Cronin and one of the defendants in that celebrated trial, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Beggs was the only one acquitted of the five indicted for the murder. It was claimed that he appointed the trial committee which decided upon Dr. Cronin's removal. It was while marching in the last St. Patrick's Day procession that he caught a cold which resulted in his death.

Minister Held Resigns.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Hon. White law Held, minister to France, called at the executive mansion this morning, accompanied by Secretary Blaine, and had an interview with the president. It is understood that Mr. Reid tendered the president his resignation as minister to France, to take effect upon the appointment of his successor.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For Kentucky, fair till Thursday night, preceded by showers in the eastern portion colder, north-west winds.

EVERY time a Republican praises reciprocity, he drives a nail in the coffin of his pet—Protection.

REPUBLICAN papers, or some of them at least, talk as if the reciprocity (free trade) clause of the McKinley bill is its great redeeming feature. When they talk that way they hit Mr. High Tariff a "sockdolager" plumb on the head.

The eyes of the politicians are centered on "Little Rhody" to-day. The latest information is that "Blocks-of-Five" Dudley has been called to the scene of the fight and placed in charge of the Republican forces. Everybody knows just what that means.

It is stated on pretty good authority that Senator Carlisle gets a fee of $25,000 in the Preston-Beall case decided last Saturday by the Court of Appeals. This is calculated to spur ambitious young attorneys to renewed zeal and energy in their efforts to work their way up front.

The Democrats of Eastern Kentucky are anxious to have Hon. John F. Hager, of Ashland, chosen a delegate from the State-at-large to the Chicago convention," says the Catlettsburg Democrat. Eastern Kentucky is certainly entitled to one of the four, and Mr. Hager is an excellent man for the place.

"The Idiocy of Kentucky Republicans" is the heading of an editorial in a late issue of that rabid G. O. P. journal, the Commercial Gazette, in which it gives them a terrible roasting for the way they have behaved for years. The continued wrangling of their leaders over the National spoils is calculated to give the rank and file "that tired feeling."

A GREAT strain has been lifted off the mind of Louisvillians. Pfeffer has at last signed to play with their base ball team this season. It is hardly necessary to add that this Pfeffer is not the individual who made a home run on John J. Ingalls and now holds a seat in the U. S. Senate. Kansas cyclones will never blow through his whiskers, because—he hasn't got any.

THE BULLETIN's new neighbor arrived on the scene Monday, and is now snugly quartered in the building adjoining the Masonic Temple. Postmaster Davis is editor and manager, and Mr. Sam T. Hickman is assistant editor and book-keeper. The BULLETIN always enjoys good company. We trust that our relations with our contemporary will ever be pleasant, and it will not be our fault if they prove otherwise.

A REPUBLICAN paper remarks that "the chief aim of the Democratic administration at Frankfort appears to be to see just how much money they can wring from the people." In the language of Judge Benjamin Franklin Bennett, the Greenup County statesman, the above is all "poppy-cock." The people know that the Legislature two years ago reduced State taxes from 4½ cents to 4½ cents on the $100. And it was a Democratic Legislature that did this. That reduction leaves about $250,000 in the pockets of the tax-payers annually, that would be "wrung" out if the change had not been made. True, we did not believe the move was a wise one, and ex-Governor Buckner did not think so either, but the reduction was made all the same, and was made by a Democratic Legislature, and it puts a quietus on all Republican "campaign lies" like the one referred to above.

A COUPLE of gentlemen, strangers in Maysville, jumped off the westbound F. F. V., at foot of Market street yesterday afternoon in order to save a long walk back from the depot. Their surprise can be imagined when a Deputy Marshal took them in charge and escorted them to the Mayor's office, for violating the ordinance in reference to getting off and on moving trains. After listening to their explanation Mayor Pearce allowed them to go their way.

We suggest that the police exercise a little judgment in such matters. The ordinance was never intended to cover such cases. Strangers not are presumed to be posted in regard to special laws of every city they visit, and it is not calculated to do Maysville any good to subject visitors to the indignity of arrest under such circumstances. If we understand the matter correctly the ordinance referred to was intended to prevent the boys of this city from jumping on trains.

WHAT "Honest Dick" Tate, Democrat, stole out of the treasury of Kentucky was but a drop compared with what Bardsley, Republican, stole out of Philadelphia's treasury. In one case it was $247,000 (and some of that has been paid back); in the other case it was one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. It was a fortunate thing for Kentucky, probably, that Mr. Tate was a Democrat.

It is remarked by a Republican paper in this connection that Bardsley now occupies a felon's cell, while Tate "is enjoying his otium cum dignitate." That only proves that Tate was the smarter rascal of the two, although he was not the bigger rogue. If Tate is ever captured, there is no doubt at all that he will wear stripes.

SEPARATED BY ACCIDENT.

"Did you ever get separated from your wife at an 'L' station, you on the departing train and she left on the platform, and then try to find her again? No? Well, never try it as a funny experiment just to see how it works." So spoke a country merchant. "My wife and I came from Tarrytown. We arrived all right at the Forty-second street station. I got on the down train in something of a pushing crowd, only to look around and see Miranda, my wife, on the platform looking around for me in a startled way. She tried to get on the train, but the gates were closed. I tried to get off, but the guards shook their heads. So my wife and I were separated. What was I to do about it?

"There are several things that look feasible enough which would suggest themselves to you at once, but, sir, none of them is feasible at all except on one condition—that both you and your wife have already agreed on it. Then that plan is feasible enough. Any plan is feasible then. But how many out of the great hosts of people who ride on the L agree on such a plan? Certainly not many of them. My wife and I do now but we hadn't then.

"The first thing that occurred to me at the moment was to get off at the next station and go back. My wife would wait for me. I had to cross over in a hurry at Thirty-fourth street, ride up and cross over back again. This cost me two extra L tickets, and as I got them I remembered with horror that my wife did not have either money or tickets with her.

"If she were lost, how could she get about town, how even get her fare again home to Tarrytown? We were commutes, and of course I, as the man of the family, carried the communion book. As these things recurred to me it was with a sense of terror that I looked around the Forty-second street platform. She was not there. I looked inside, in the ticket office, in the sitting room. Nowhere was she to be seen. How beautiful would her old face have appeared to me at that moment! I asked the ticket cruncher if he had seen such and such a lady, and if she had asked him anything.

"Tickets!" he remarked in reply.

"Then I remembered that as I had walked into the sitting room I would have to pay to come out again. I went back and got a ticket. Then I asked him again. There was some one who had tried to tell him something about having got separated from her husband and not knowing what to do, but there had come a rush, and he told her that she had better ask some one else, as he couldn't be interrupted. So she disappeared, and he knew nothing more.

"Then there came to me a thought which to this day thank heaven for, and thank heaven also that the idea came to her. She must have gone back to the Grand Central station to wait for me. With no money or tickets she could go nowhere else except down, and then she could not get back. She would not want to veer very far away from the Grand Central, because she would understand that however much I might run around town after her, I must come there at last. There I found her, very comfortably looking over the list of things we were to buy, and not at all disconcerted at the incident of our separation. She even laughed at my disturbance. Then and there I tucked a dollar bill inside her glovo, and told her that if we got separated again to remember that we would meet at the Central in time for the 5 p. m. train. Then we went on our shopping tour.

"Some of the officers of the road say that the thing to do is to wait for the one that's left at the City Hall station, and for her to take the very next train. But suppose she had taken a South ferry train and landed at the Battery? With no money, how would she ever have got to the Grand Central again? If two separated people think just alike in such an emergency, all well and good; but how often will they do so? If one has all his wits about him and thinks out exactly the correct thing to do, is it sure that the other one will? There are possibilities for heartrending disturbances in a case like this. The only way to do is to fix on a place and hour to meet again, and then see that your wife carries some money with her."—New York Tribune.

THE Frankfort Lottery Company in its answer to the quo warranto proceedings commenced by Attorney General Hendrick, claims the right to conduct the lottery under the terms of the charter granted for the benefit of the Frankfort Public Schools, and which right was purchased by the defendants from the city of Frankfort. Senator Carlisle is one of the company's attorneys.

SARDIS AND ARTHURANIA.

SARDIS—DISTRICT NO. 23.

Here is a model school house, quite new. It is a very handsome and attractive building, containing two good-sized rooms, well lighted and ventilated, with all conveniences properly provided. It stands in a two-acre lot of nicely rolling ground, affording ample play ground. The property does credit to the district, and to the trustees who have shown such appreciation of the requirements of the district. The trustees are H. M. Pyles, D. C. Mullikin and J. M. Wheatley, and there is evidence of their attention to their official duties. The teachers are Miss Alice Dory and Mr. John Gifford, the latter having charge of the advanced classes, and the former of the primary and intermediate classes. Miss Dory has taught for this district several years, and she is a very laborious and faithful teacher. The scholars all gave evidence of good training and the full curriculum of the public schools is taught. We found the scholars all well behaved, courteous and attentive. This was a very pleasant visit.

We had the pleasure to visit the school taught by Miss Little Wood in the town. Miss Wood is an accomplished and attractive young lady, and very thoroughly qualified for her position. She teaches a private school, which seems to be well maintained. We heard expressions of high commendation of this young lady from several sources.

From this school we drove to the beautiful and hospitable home of an old and honored friend, George Stiles, and found a most cordial welcome—a good, cheerful fire and a sumptuous dinner, which with all surrounding comforts we duly appreciated that bleak, chilly day in the latter part of October. We enjoyed the hospitality of the host and his estimable family so much that we were reluctant to leave, but the prospect of a long, dreary ride left us no alternative. Whenever we pass that way again, we shall not need to guide our horse to Mr. Stiles' gate; he knows a good thing when he sees it.

ARTHURANIA—DISTRICT NO. 55.

This district had at one time a name so impractical and wanting in euphony that it was changed, we believe, by the poet and scholarly writer of the classic region of "Shannon," Colonel J. B. Herndon, to "Arthurania," which title is altogether acceptable. The trustees are Abel Reese, C. J. Arthur and J. W. Prather, and very faithful trustees they are.

Miss Ida Mayhugh has charge of the school, and her reputation as a teacher is so well established through the county as to render word of commendation superfluous. We were pleased to observe the diligent attention and the interest shown by her scholars. The recitations were well given, and Miss Mayhugh seemed happy and contented in her school.

Obliterating the "K. C."

Ere long the letters "K. C." will not be so conspicuous in railroad circles as they have been for years. The Covington Record remarks that the great Louisville and Nashville Company which absorbed it is having the K. C. locomotives painted "L. and N." where K. C. used to be. The K. C. coaches have been painted the standard L. and N. chocolate color with the words "Louisville and Nashville" inscribed upon them.

THE literary and musical entertainment at Shannon Church Friday evening, April 8th, presents a very attractive program. Some splendid musicians are on the bill. Professor Cappa, of Louisville, the Young Men's Orchestra of Maysville, Shannon choir, with some foreign additions, and Professor Ray, with his golden cornet. The attractions are many and must be seen and heard to be appreciated. Turn out and enjoy the beautiful moonlight drive.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she was a Child, she clung to Castoria.

William Miller is visiting home folks. J. L. Schlitz was re-elected Marshal by a big lot. Sidney Herbert returned to Cincinnati Monday. Mrs. C. B. Sutton spent Sunday in Manchester. Smith & Clark, grocers, have dissolved, William Smith assuming charge.

Mrs. Josie Frishle, of Texas, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Herbert.

The war is over and peace declared, though strenuous efforts did prevail. It was not est. Jesus Ellis was elected by a decided plurality for Mayor. Law and order are still on top.

C. B. Sutton should be proud of his vote. He lead the Republican ticket decidedly, showing he had some strong Democratic friends. The Republican managers manifested energy in having tickets early.

But suppose she had taken a South ferry train and landed at the Battery? With no money, how would she ever have got to the Grand Central again?

If two separated people think just alike in such an emergency, all well and good; but how often will they do so?

If one has all his wits about him and thinks out exactly the correct thing to do, is it sure that the other one will? There are possibilities for heartrending disturbances in a case like this. The only way to do is to fix on a place and hour to meet again, and then see that your wife carries some money with her.

CAVED IN.

Traffic on the K. C. Interfered With by An Accident at Pleasant Valley Tunnel.

The L. and N. Railroad Company has had a force of hands at work on the Pleasant Valley tunnel for several weeks, enlarging it and placing it in thorough repair.

Yesterday, shortly after noon, there was a big cave in, that covered a part of the track with a mass of earth and rock. The southbound freight train and the southbound passenger that leave here about 1:10 p. m. and 1:15 p. m. were both caught on this side of the tunnel.

The accident will cause considerable interruption to traffic on the Maysville division for several days. Passengers for points south of Pleasant Valley will have to make transfer at that place for a distance of half a mile. All express and mail matter has to be transferred also. No freight will be received by the agent at this place for points beyond Pleasant Valley until further notice.

It is thought the tunnel will be clear in three or four days. The passenger train last night got in at 11 o'clock, the work of transferring causing a delay of two hours.

Later information from the accident is that fifteen men made a narrow escape from being caught under the mass of earth. When the afternoon passenger train reached the north end of the tunnel, a small obstruction was seen on the track at the other end, and the train was stopped. Roadmaster Kelly, Chief Train Dispatcher Anderson and ten or twelve others went in, and when near the far end heard the cracking and giving away of the earth. There was a stampede and all escaped. Mr. Kelly and Mr. James Fitzgerald, of the Bee Hive, fell down in the rush and were trampled on and considerably bruised by their frightened companions.

To expedite matters, and accommodate passengers, one boat will lie at the wharf while the other is on the trip. The Bonanza will be at the wharf receiving freight all day. On the Carrollton's arrival at night, she will go to the wharf, the crew will go over on the Bonanza, which will have steam up in readiness, and leave at 11 o'clock. It will keep the crew hustling."

STORM DAMAGES.

[By Telegraph to the BULLETIN.]

DENVER, April 6.—A dispatch from Julesburg, Colo., says. Charles Rosenquest, P. J. Gorham and Joseph Close, together with two daughters, have been temporarily living in a barn waiting completion of their farmhouse, which is being built twenty miles south of here. At 8 o'clock Monday morning a heavy wind blew the barn over, carrying it clear off the ground for a distance of 200 feet, and as the barn had no floor it left the inmates lying exposed to the storm, their beds scattered to the winds and their clothes torn away from them until finally the blinding snow covered them in a drift.

Mr. Rosenquest managed to tell his two daughters to lie still, while he succeeded in keeping a hole open through the drift to keep them from smothering to death. The other two men lay ten feet away, but did not know what was going on, on account of the blinding snow. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the storm stopped just in time to save the lives of the two girls, who were carried to a fire behind some boards, when the men finally succeeded in alleviating their sufferings. The intense cold froze their limbs, fingers and feet, but they will recover.

Electrical Storm.

VALPARAISO, Ind., April 6.—A terrific electrical storm burst over this city about 11 o'clock Monday night. The display of lightning was brilliant and the roar of the thunder deafening. So charged was the atmosphere with electricity that every object appeared to be tinged with blue flames. Reports which reach this city this morning are to the effect that the wind did great damage in the country, in many places leveling fences and outbuildings. The storm was accompanied by the heaviest downfall of rain known in this section for years.

Snow Storm in Nebraska.

OMAHA, April 6.—The snow storm still prevails in the north and west. The Union Pacific has no wires west of North Platte or north of Cady in this state. The Elkhorn road will attempt to send a train out of Deadwood today and the blockaded trains at Long Pine will be turned and sent back to Deadwood. The Burlington road has had no trains from Black Hills since Saturday. Advices from Colorado say the barometer is the lowest in sixteen years.

Killed by Lightning.

EFFINGHAM, Ills., April 6.—Leo Dale was instantly killed by lightning and his brother was probably fatally injured during a severe electric storm here. Seven washouts on the Vandalia line between here and Terre Haute were caused by the storm. All trains are temporarily abandoned. The Wabash river is the highest ever known, and a number of bridges over that stream have been carried away.

Almost a Blizzard.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 6.—A general storm is prevailing throughout the northwest and lacks only low temperature to have all the elements of a blizzard. Seeding, which had begun in earnest, will be delayed at least two or three weeks on account of the rain and snow, which have soaked the ground as it has not been for ten years.

Increasing Every Hour.

RED LAKE FALLS, Minn., April 6.—Every hour the storm here is growing more and more violent. To the north a furious blizzard is raging, the wind sweeping over the prairie with immense velocity, accompanied by drifting snows. More than a foot of snow has already fallen. It is likely that lives will be lost during the great storm.

Several Buildings Damaged.

WARSAW, Ills., April 6.—A terrific gale of wind struck this city Sunday night, blowing part of the roof off the Adams House and damaging that and adjoining buildings to the extent of $2,000. Several buildings were blown down by the storm.

Small Town Destroyed.

DENNISON, Tex., April 6.—Brownsville, a small town in the Chickasaw nation, has been destroyed by a cyclone. Several persons were killed.

HONOLULU NEWS.

Advices Brought Over by the Steamer Australia.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—The steamer Australia from Honolulu arrived at noon yesterday and brings the following advices:

The queen, accompanied by a number of the members of the court and cabinet in full dress, paid an official visit to the United States cruiser San Francisco on March 19.

John R. Griffith, who confessed to being one of the men who had robbed the Southern Pacific train at Pigley, Cal., several years ago, on which occasion the fireman and a passenger were killed, went along as a member of the crew. When the vessel puts in San Francisco, after a ten months' cruise, the alleged criminal will be handed over to the authorities.

Two Girls Disappear.

VALPARAISO, Ind., April 6.—The disappearance of Lilla Lere and Mertie Hill, members of highly respected families in this city, has been referred to the police. Both girls left here last Sunday morning to visit with friends over Sunday.

PROVING HIS GUILT.

An Inquest Began Upon the Body of Deeming's Dead Wife.

MELBOURNE, April 6.—The inquest upon the body of Deeming's murdered wife began yesterday. The body was identified, and Deeming was identified as the husband and as the man who, under the name of Drouin, rented the house in which the body was found. A witness named Hirschfeld, who was on the steamer with Deeming between Perth and Melbourne, told of remarks by Deeming indicating his guilt. Deeming affected a careless air during the inquest and even laughed aloud at times.

It transpired that when Deeming was arrested in the gold fields he was arranging to marry Miss Rounseville, of Bathurst, who was soon to join him. He had a house and bought a barrel of cement, with which he had laid the floor of the main room. When arrested he was reading a paper and pointed to a paragraph and asked the constable if that was the crime attributed to him. He added: "I think I know the party who was murdered. She was a good little thing and I cannot believe that any one would hurt her." The paragraph was about Deeming's crime. The constable says that Deeming talked about the murder in a way to indicate his familiarity with facts. The police are looking for a stained mattress which Deeming had when he left Melbourne.

Run Down by a Train.

SHARON, O., April 6.—James P. Allen, Jr., twenty-eight, a well-to-do farmer, living between Gano and West Chester, while on his way from Sharon to Glendale, was struck and instantly killed by train No. 17 of the Big Four, while crossing the track. His horse, a valuable animal, was also killed, and his buggy was completely demolished. Allen leaves wife and two children, the youngest being but eight days old.

Novel Way of Avenging a Murder.

PANAMA, April 6.—At a ball in Culebra, Costa Rica, last night, Baker Anderson and a man named Yatman quarreled over a woman. Yatman struck Anderson and Anderson stabbed Yatman to the heart. Anderson ran the moment Yatman dropped dead and tried to escape down the railroad track. A special train that was sent out after him overtook him on a bridge, ran over and killed him instantly.

Murdered by a Robber.

BENNINGTON, Vt., April 6.—Charles Crowley died yesterday from injuries received Monday night by being struck on the head with a club by one Henry McDowell. The men were out in the woods together Monday night and Crowley was found yesterday morning. It is thought robbery was the motive. Crowley is known to have had $60 with him, but when found only 40 cents was found in his possession.

World's Fair Building Wrecked.

CHICAGO, April 6.—A heavy gale from the southwest yesterday damaged the Illinois state building at the world's fair grounds to the extent of $17,000. A large portion of the main dome was blown down, and in the fall it carried away derricks, scantlings, trestles and a large section of the south brick wall. The new brick power house adjoining machinery hall, was also damaged about $2,000 worth.

Leg Broken—Arm Crushed.

FRANKLIN, Ind., April 6.—Two serious accidents occurred yesterday. Mrs. Lemaster, mother of Wash Lemaster, of this city, fell from a porch and broke her leg. A number of years ago the same bone was broken by a fall. At Greenwood George I. Stuart, a new man, had his right arm horribly crushed from the elbow to the wrist, while coupling cars.

Minister Egan Coming Home.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The state department has granted Minister Egan a leave of absence, and he will return to the United States from Chili in May. Secretary McCleery, the charge d'affaires, will be in charge at Santiago, Chili, during the absence of Minister Egan.

Boy Accidentally Shot.

FINDLAY, O., April 6.—While playing with a Flobert rifle at the Findlay Boiler works Ed France, an employee, accidentally discharged the gun, the bullet hitting into the right eye of Earl Johnson, a boy about fifteen years of age, producing instant death.
